INTRODUCTION

1.1. Introduction of the topic:

Women are unique, women seem to be a symbol of strength. Yet it seems that women are still neglected in various places. They have been suffering from various problems since ancient times. The various such problems are mentioned below:-

Women are discriminated against based on sexual orientation and gender identity. In many countries around the world, women are still denied their rights on the basis of sexuality. Gender inequality affects women in various areas such as nutrition, education, health, care, female population decline, employment, public life, etc. Gender discrimination has been considering women as a weaker section of society than men. Where girl children are the real victims.

There is another problem violence against by women. Women are getting affected by the various violence almost everyday which is disrupting the society. Women are being victims of violence.

There is another burning problem Gender pay gap. Women are being paid less for the work that men are doing. Simply because they are women. This is having a terrible impact at the present time.

In addition, women today continue to face challenges in terms of equal access to education, health care, decent work, and representation in the political and economic spheres.

Moreover, another problem that is currently seen is child marriage. For which reason child birth increases the risk of maternal death, unplanned pregnancy, miscarriage and child malnutrition.

But among so many women's problems, the women's problems of the Muslim Society are particularly noteworthy.

Muslim women have been excluded from all aspects of social life which has become a major obstacle for them to become "modern" women. Muslim women have also been forced to believe this manipulative thinking. Most Muslim women still live in conditions of malnutrition, illness, illiterate, social and political and in some areas, religious extremism.

According to experts currently, lack of education and patriarchy have been the two main factors for the poor participation of Muslim women in the work force. Despite all the advances in modernity, the problems faced by women are truly remarkable. This is whether it is the Hindu Community or the Muslim Community.
